

ROOTS LYNCHERS CUTS DOWN MAN

Deputy Sheriff Rushes Mob and Saves Intended Victim from Crowd Enraged by the Shooting of Four Brothers.

HANGED THREE TIMES, BUT ESCAPES WITH LIFE.

Three Are Fatally Wounded and a Fourth May Die as Result of Attempt to Arrest Drunken Man.

(Special to The Evening World.)

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 2.—The college town of Oxford is today wildly excited over a tragedy that occurred in the streets during an agricultural carnival, as a result of an effort by Village Marshal John Woodruff to arrest Louis Spivey, of Waverly, Ky. Four men were shot, three perhaps fatally, and another is lying near death from a fractured skull. The injured are John Woodruff, village marshal, shot through the right breast and condition very critical; Jacob Manrod, deputy marshal, shot through the side and arm, bullet lodged near spine and not located; very serious; E. V. Jetter, school teacher, of Oxford, a bystander, shot in the right side by a stray bullet; bullet lodged in spine, very critical. Louis Spivey, of Waverly, Ky., shot in side, will probably die before evening. Joe Spivey, of Middletown, O., brother of Louis Spivey, skull fractured by stone, will live.

An attempt to lynch Joe Spivey followed the rioting, and only the determined action of Luke Brannon, deputy sheriff of Butler County, who arrived from Hamilton two hours after the first outbreak, prevented the success of the mob's plan. Almost unaided, he cut Spivey from a tree on which the mob had hanged him.

The rioting began at 6 o'clock, when Marshal Woodruff attempted to arrest Louis Spivey, who had been exhibiting pistols and was drinking whiskey in the street. He had no sooner seized Spivey than Joe Spivey stepped back, and without warning, shot Woodruff down.

The street crowd, when it had recovered from the shock, rushed for neighboring hardware stores and seizing shot-guns and revolvers, pursued the men. Both the Spiveys drew pistols and a running battle in crowded High street followed. Deputy Marshal Jake Manrod was shot twice at the first fire. E. V. Jetter was hit by a stray bullet as he entered his house opposite Oxford College. The fugitives made a stand, firing repeatedly, but the crowd rushed them. The shooting became general.

In an alley Louis Spivey turned round and was shot in the side before he had gone fifty feet. He was captured and taken to the police station, where he is dying.

At the very door of the station the mob made a rush for him, but the officers beat the crowd off. In the mean time part of the crowd pursued Joe Spivey, who ran west on Church street. In front of D. M. Weisman's house Spivey made his last stand, emptying his last pistol at Letcher Burton, a young negro, who led the pursuers. The plucky negro kept on, and following him across lots overtook Spivey in North street. As he came up Burton hit the fugitive in the head with a rock, knocking him senseless.

Carry Him to Jail. Ex-Mayor Flanagan and others then took charge of the man, carrying him to the jail. The mob, which now had a rope, tried to get him also, but it had no leader and the officers got their man. Several hundred armed men were gathered around the jail. The wounded men were operated upon in various doctors' offices and the crowd awaited eagerly for news.

Marshal Woodruff's aged father, a farmer, arrived soon after the shooting, and called for vengeance on the Spiveys. As the excitement grew a message was sent to Hamilton for aid. Luckily Deputy Sheriff Brannon

CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER CAR WHEELS

Rafael Vitale Drove His Coal Truck Across Vanderbilt Avenue Tracks on a Down Grade and Died Instantly.

Rafael Vitale, of No. 45 Skillman street, was run down and instantly killed by a Vanderbilt avenue car, at Vanderbilt and Park avenues, Brooklyn, today.

Vitale was driving a coal wagon. He stopped at Park avenue to let a companion down, and as he swung his team around into Vanderbilt avenue he failed to notice the car headed down grade at high speed.

The policeman tried to stop his car, but it slid along the rails and, striking the truck, hurled Vitale from his seat. He was caught under the fender and the forward wheels passed over his body. A wrecking crew had to be called to lift the car from the body.

Motorman Cavanaugh was arrested.

FIREMAN FALLS FOUR STORIES

John Coyle Drops from Roof of Building, Breaking Both His Legs—Other Injuries May Cause Death.

Fireman John Coyle, of Hook and Ladder Company No. 12, fell from the roof of a four-story building at No. 261 West Sixteenth street this morning, sustaining fractures of both legs and internal injuries, which it is feared will result in his death.

The fire was a trivial one, the damage being so slight as to amount to less than a hundred dollars. Around the water tank on the roof of the building on Sixteenth street was packed a lot of sawdust and material of a semi-inflammable nature to absorb all possible leaks. How the fire originated in this pack around the tank is unknown, but when the firemen arrived it looked as if the tank itself would be destroyed.

Coyle was one of the first to reach the roof. Getting a purchase on a partition wall on which he was standing he attempted to pry open the cover of the water tank. His hold was not firm in the wall and he slipped, toppling over the roof. Unable to break his fall, he shot through the air, landing in a back yard as in a heap.

It was at first thought that Coyle was dead, but upon examination it was found that he still lived. He was taken to the New York Hospital. Both his legs were broken, but this was not the most serious part of his injuries. The physicians say that he will probably die.

Coyle is forty years old, is married and has three children. He lives at No. 262 Eighth avenue and is known in the department as a brave man, ever ready to try the most dangerous work in the call of duty.
